British Sovereigns Celebrate.

has ever known. The first time that the Prince of Wales met the Danish princess was in the cathedral at Worms, in 1861. Later they were both guests of the Crown Prince of Prussia, and their attachment for each other was made apparent. Just before the prince became of age his betrothal was announced publicly, though the secret had been known to the inner circle of his relatives for about a month. The royal pair had an engagement of about six months, during which many preparations for the wedding occupied the interest of both England and Denmark. The Danes were enthusiastic over the marriage of their princess, and the "people's dowry," as it was called, amounted to 100,000 kroner. After the arrival of the bride in England there were various public receptions in London, and the princess was hailed everywhere with true British cordiality. The wedding ceremony took place in St. George's Chapel, Windsor, on March 10th, 1863, with all the pomp and gorgeous ceremonial befitting the occasion. From that day to this the popularity of Alexandra has been sure and steadfast. The sweetness and nobility of her character have endeared her to all the people and insured her a place of commanding influence in her present position as Queen of England.

MOLASSES CURE FOR CANCER

Our Mackay correspondent telegraphs as follows:—Great local interest is exhibited in connection with the alleged cure for cancer discovered here some months ago by a man named Braun, who cured himself with special treatment, in which a preparation of molasses formed an important part. On Wednesday last Dr. Hensell, medical officer for the district, and resident surgeon at the Mackay Hospital, in the course of an interview stated the gratifying news of two hospital patients, both of whom were suffering from growths in the stomach, being cured by the molasses treatment. One case, that of a man named Conroy, was very serious, and the patient was almost beyond hope when the doctor began the molasses treatment. Conroy had been under one operation, and Dr. Hensell had not the slightest doubt that it was a case of true cancer. Regarding the second case, Dr. Hensell is not positive that it was true cancer, as it is difficult for a medical man to state definitely that a growth is true cancer without an operation disclosing the fact. Dr. Hensell, however, stated that the patient Millington suffered from a serious growth, which is being eradicated by the molasses treatment. Considerable local interest is naturally being exhibited in the matter, as the discovery of a cure for so terrible a disease as cancer is one which would be welcomed throughout the world. The present cases confirm the results of previous experiments, and the discovery is regarded as sufficiently interesting to be circulated throughout the world.—Queenslander, 7th Feb. 1903.

Mr. R. A. Jordan, who hands the Advertiser the above, personally vouches for Dr. Hensell, who is a personal friend. Mr. Jordan has received clippings about other cures.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY is intended especially for coughs, colds, whooping cough and influenza. It has become famous for its cures of these diseases over a large part of the civilized world. The most flattering testimonials have been received giving accounts of its good works; of the aggravating and persistent coughs it has cured; of severe colds that have yielded promptly to its soothing effects, and of the dangerous attacks of croup it has cured, often saving the life of the child. The extensive use of it for whooping cough has shown that it robs that disease of all dangerous results. It is especially prized by mothers because it contains nothing injurious; and there is not the least danger in giving it, even to babies. It always cures and cures quickly. Benson, Smith & Co., Ltd., wholesale agents, sell it.
